The conference in today’s Europe has become migration societies, character-ised not only by ethnic, religious and cultural diversity, but also for complex and widespread traditions of national and cultural tra-sition. Public debate on migration is initiated by events such as the riots in the suburbs of Paris in autumn 2005, the cartoon dispute in Denmark, the intense debates on the ‘integra-tion’ of the Muslim population and the increasing fear of terroris-m threats, and a rise in xenophobia and antipathy towards the negative influences of the current immigration debates in Europe, the increasing fear of terroris-m in Europe, the increasing fear of terrorism and xenophobia are all indicators of the public social and political challenges facing the states of the European Union. In view of this, it is becoming increasingly important to develop an open discourse on culture in which the mutual recognition of cultural diversity and respect for basic human and civil rights are in close association. Here, citizenship education can and must make a sig-nificant contribution by transcending national borders and seeking co-op-eration on both a European and an international level.

By closing closely at the most pressing challenges of migration and inte-gration we wish to introduce a more informed debate on basic con-ccepts such as citizenship, social inclusion, pluralism and toler-ance, on European democratic societies. The conference will provide a platform and exchange of and shares with conference during migration education in European societies, as well as cooperation and moderation with other migration education in European societies. This workshop will examine how these twenty-first century European experi-ences can be communicated in today’s social reality of immigration. How can the varying and didactic multidisciplinary cultural education and in Pakistan and Europe be connected with a European ‘public media’ that also includes migrant and trans-local moderation?

Workshop 3: How to Be a Good (European) Citizen, Standards, Subjects and Models.

This workshop will compare the variety of methods that have been developed to cope with migrant naturalisation in European countries, and will take a closer look at the con-cents and approaches that underly them. What values and standards provide the basis for these models? Do these approaches differ in a way that indicates that European citizenship are already present, or are they only a reflection of more heterogeneous nationalism?

Workshop 5: Economic Dimensions of Migration – Challenges of Citizenship Education.

The origin – and most illegal – migration in EU countries illustrated the presence and ambivalence toward individuals of migration. On the one hand, the EU is struggling to pull up the European Union to be integrated and aim to offer migrants without offering them the benefits of citizenship. The fans fear by the population can be easily exploited by right-wing xenophobes. This topic and strategy must be combined with citizenship education in particular in communicating the changes happening in European societies, across the different boundaries and encouraging politics to deal with migration in more coherent and non-stereotypical ways that can improve the European society.

Workshop 6: Talk about Migration – Methods, Evaluation and Research for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship.

Inva Köpjen, University of Mannheim
Bright Future-Channelled: National Institute of Demographic Studies.

Workshop 4: Religious Identities and Citizenship

European debates are revolving around the balancing between state, religious groups and the individual. Migration communities are becoming less religiously defined. In both Europe and the United States, religious groups are becoming a secular entity. This workshop looks at how a multi-national identity, particularly for Muslims, can be fostered and developed, and the role of citizenship education in European democratic societies.

Moderator: Johannes Kandel, European Forum for Migration Studies / University of Bamberg

Yildiz Akdogan

Southeast Asian and Caribbean Studies / University of Leiden

Rainer Ohliger

KITLV / Royal Netherlands Institute of Southeast Asian Studies / University of Leiden

Rainer Ohliger

Contributors

Johannes Kandel, Member of the Global Commission on International Migration, European Forum for Migration Studies / University of Bamberg

Amin Choukri, Author, DJibouti/Paris

Maria Grazia Blandini, European Film Academy, Berlin

Victor Menders, Social Sciences Research Center, Berlin

Frida Fellini Dell’Olio, University of Cambridge

Abdourahman A. Waberi, Author, Dschibuti/Paris

Remembrance, Responsibility and Future: Immigration Continent Europe:

Workshop 2: Introduction and Moderation

Gert Oostindie, Publicist / University of Amsterdam

Rainer Ohliger

KitLV / Royal Netherlands Institute of Southeast Asian Studies / University of Leiden

Rainer Ohliger

Contributors

Jeanette Amtsberg, Author, Amsterdam

Johannes Kandel, author of this paper together with experts, multipliers and practitioners involved in citizenship education in Europe. March of 2005 will bring the 50th anniversary of Treaty on Rome, this will lend weight to a truly European initiatives.

Workshop 1: Remarks, Responsibility and Future

European Forum of Migration Research

Joan Font

Rui Pena Pires

Selma Muhic-Dizdarevic

Kenan Malik

University of Surrey, Guildford

Fellow, Department of Political, International and Policy Studies, University of Surrey, Guildford

Remembrance, Responsibility and Future: Immigration Continent Europe:

Workshop 2: Introduction and Moderation

Gert Oostindie, Publicist / University of Amsterdam

Rainer Ohliger

National Memories and Cultural Identities in Europe

Migration – History – Diversity: Workshops and National Centres in Cultural Identities

National Institute of Demographic Studies.

Bright Future-Channelled: National Institute of Demographic Studies.

Workshop 4: Religious Identities and Citizenship

European debates are revolving around the balancing between state, religious groups and the individual. Migration communities are beginning to lose their religious identity. In both Europe and the United States, religious groups are becoming a secular entity. This workshop will examine how these twentieth-century European experiences can be communicated in today’s social reality of immigration. How can the varying and didactic multidisciplinary cultural education and in Pakistan and Europe be connected with a European ‘public media’ that also includes migrant and trans-local moderation?

Workshop 6: Talk about Migration – Methods, Evaluation and Research for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship.

Inva Köpjen, University of Mannheim
Bright Future-Channelled: National Institute of Demographic Studies.

Workshop 4: Religious Identities and Citizenship

European debates are revolving around the balancing between state, religious groups and the individual. Migration communities are beginning to lose their religious identity. In both Europe and the United States, religious groups are becoming a secular entity. This workshop will examine how these twentieth-century European experiences can be communicated in today’s social reality of immigration. How can the varying and didactic multidisciplinary cultural education and in Pakistan and Europe be connected with a European ‘public media’ that also includes migrant and trans-local moderation?

Workshop 5: Economic Dimensions of Migration – Challenges of Citizenship Education.

The origin – and most illegal – migration in EU countries illustrated the presence and ambivalence toward individuals of migration. On the one hand, the EU is struggling to pull up the European Union to be integrated and aim to offer migrants without offering them the benefits of citizenship. The fans fear by the population can be easily exploited by right-wing xenophobes. This topic and strategy must be combined with citizenship education in particular in communicating the changes happening in European societies, across the different boundaries and encouraging politics to deal with migration in more coherent and non-stereotypical ways that can improve the European society.
The conference language will be English. Participants will not be able to register on site: please register no later than 20th April, 2007 by submitting your name, address, country, organization and field of interest to the conference management.

Program:

General: The second workshop session will present and review educational and didactical approaches, as well as best practice formats that are suitable for key topics in European citizenship education and discuss migration of articles. Each participant can upload a presentation to the conference management. Participants will be notified about the acceptance of their paper within 3 months after the conference. Most contributions are required to present their papers, work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’. If you wish to make a presentation of your ideas, please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Saturday, 28 April 2007

9:30 h Interactive Laboratories

12:30 h Lunch

1:00 h Presentation of the ‘Posters’ and Round Table

Workshop 1: The Future of Citizenship Education in European Societies – Scenarios, Projects, Networks

1.00 – 2.00 pm

Moderation: Jörg Lau

Sven-Olaf Ossian
European Film Academy, Berlin

Christoph Müller-Hofstede
Agency for Civic Education, Berlin

Renate Slowik-Seiden, Austrian Ministry for Education, Arts, and Culture, Vienna

Theresa Schroeder

The Future of Citizenship Education in European Societies: Scenarios, Networks, Projects

The conference will focus on the current and future directions of citizenship education in Europe. The discussions will focus on the following topics:

- The future of citizenship education in European societies: Scenarios, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Ethnographic, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Educational, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Scientific, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Political, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Economic, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Social, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Cultural, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Religious, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Environmental, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: International, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Interdisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Multidisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Transdisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Interrelated, Networks, Projects

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Saturday, 28 April 2007

9:30 h Interactive Laboratories

12:30 h Lunch

1:00 h Presentation of the ‘Posters’ and Round Table

Workshop 1: The Future of Citizenship Education in European Societies – Scenarios, Projects, Networks

1.00 – 2.00 pm

Moderation: Jörg Lau

Sven-Olaf Ossian
European Film Academy, Berlin

Christoph Müller-Hofstede
Agency for Civic Education, Berlin

Renate Slowik-Seiden, Austrian Ministry for Education, Arts, and Culture, Vienna

Theresa Schroeder

The Future of Citizenship Education in European Societies: Scenarios, Networks, Projects

The conference will focus on the current and future directions of citizenship education in Europe. The discussions will focus on the following topics:

- The future of citizenship education in European societies: Scenarios, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Ethnographic, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Educational, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Scientific, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Political, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Economic, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Social, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Cultural, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Religious, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Environmental, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: International, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Interdisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Multidisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Transdisciplinary, Networks, Projects
- The future of citizenship education in Europe: Interrelated, Networks, Projects

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.

Conclusion: From the ‘learnlab’ we will organize an open space at the end of the conference to discuss the future of citizenship education in Europe. Participants are invited to present their papers (work in progress, or just good ideas in various ‘open spaces’). If you wish to make a presentation (‘open space’), please send an abstract or a project draft to the conference management by 30 March 2007. We will then get in touch with you and discuss the best way to present your ideas.